Gender Responsive Budgeting (GRB) is...

a concept and a practical approach widely extended and used in developed and developing countries in the last 35 years. It can serve as a tool for achieving the triple goal of promoting development, enhancing gender equality and fulfilling human rights. Gender budget initiatives analyze how governments raise and spend public money, with the aim of securing gender equality in decision-making about public resource allocation; and gender equality in the distribution of the impact of government budgets, both in their benefits and in their burdens.

Training Objectives

To combine theory with hands-on training to develop technical skills for implementing specific Gender Responsive Budgeting tools related to governmental spending. Participants will be able to:

- Discuss GRB in an holistic way
- Examine key elements for GRB such as actors, strategies, good practices and challenges wimplementing GRB
- Interpret how technical tools for GRB can be tailored to different contexts

What modality should you pick?

- Self-Paced
Recommended to create a common understanding on GRB in an organisation
- Moderated
Recommended to empower staff in designing a GRB project and implementing it
- Face-to-face
Recommended to improve the quality of GRB processes based on expertise and networking

Audience

The course will be of particular benefit to development practitioners including United Nations System staff, researchers, policy-makers, civil society and advocates who are working on gender mainstreaming in different spheres such as public policy, planning and budgeting.
